Hecker Quasquicentennial Parade & Picnic Celebrated September 4th, Good Time Had By All

Hecker officials & 125th committee members along with other local officials toast from the ceremonial golden keg at the start of the festival.

After a major delay due to the COVID-19 pandemic the Hecker Quasquicentennial Parade and Festival was finally held on September 4th. After a rainy morning nearly 75 entrants paraded through town from the village park to the community center park. After the parade, village officials, 125th committee members and other local officials toasted from the golden keg. Residents past & present, guests, and various organizations celebrated through the night keeping mind of how Hecker got it's roots and the memories along the 125 year path. Kids explored the rides while parents celebrated. Free history booklets were given out during the parade. Those booklets are still available at the post office and village hall on Thursdays from 6PM-8PM. Also available while supplies last are souvenirs including t-shirts, glasses, metal signs, Christmas ornaments, glasses, cups, beer buckets and more.
